by the time you get your hands on this magazine a wave of changes is expected to happen tension of the recent spm exams would have plummeted as the holiday spirit envelops us and while everything is bright and merry some of you could be at the facon education fair in klcc this december deciding which course to take whilst silently hoping you get aces on your actual spm results nagging thoughts you would rather muffle with the latest star wars movie or new year s dinner party nerve wracking it is change is exciting it s a cycle that all of us operate in and that s totally fine as i ve been there too taking over the magazine with a fresh team of young writers was a tought experience but it was a great opportunity to decide and flesh out new ideas thoughts of failing trouble our minds but those are the very things that hinder us from growing after having said that i would encourage all of you to be recipe for change don t be afraid to cook up some trouble this book represents the emerging efforts of a growing international network of researchers and practitioners to promote the development and uptake of evidence based pedagogies in higher education at something a level approaching large scale impact by offering a communication venue that attracts and enhances much needed partnerships among practitioners and researchers in pedagogical innovation we aim to change the conversation and focus on how we work and learn together i e extending the implementation and knowledge of co design methods in this first edition of our research topic on active learning we highlight two of the three types of publications we wish to promote first are studies aimed at understanding the pedagogical designs developed by practitioners in their own practices by bringing to bear the theoretical lenses developed and tested in the education research community these types of studies constitute the practice pull that we see as a necessary counterbalance to knowledge push in a more productive pedagogical innovation ecosystem based on research practitioner partnerships second are studies empirically examining the implementations of evidence based designs in naturalistic settings and under naturalistic conditions interestingly the teams conducting these studies are already exemplars of partnerships between researchers and practitioners who are uniquely positioned as in betweens straddling the two worlds as a result these publications represent both the rigours of research and the pragmatism of reflective practice in forthcoming editions we will add to this collection a third type of publication design profiles these will present practitioner developed pedagogical designs at varying levels of abstraction to be held to scrutiny amongst practitioners instructional designers and researchers alike we hope by bringing these types of studies together in an open access format that we may contribute to the development of new forms of practitioner researcher interactions that promote co design in pedagogical innovation the promotion of health in universities is of great importance as it allows for the encouragement of healthy lifestyles and the prevention of diseases among students teaching staff and administrative personnel the university is a conductive environment for the promotion of healthy habits since firstly it is usually the moment when the students make decisions under their responsibility and secondly it is a place where academic sports and social activities take place so it is also an ideal moment to promote changes that can be transferred to society and the rest of the individual s life health promotion in universities can cover several areas such as healthy eating physical exercise prevention of addictions emotional and social mental health among others it can also involve the entire university community from students to administrative and teaching staff in the case of students it is essential as it is a period of change and habit formation and the fact that they
